Clean Energy Works: Senate Clean Energy, Climate Plan Essential to Putting America Back in Control

(Washington, D.C.) --Senators John Kerry and Barbara Boxer today introduced a comprehensive clean energy and climate plan: the Clean Energy Jobs & American Power Act. The Clean Energy Works campaign offered the following statement in response.

Statement of David Di Martino, Clean Energy Works Communications Director

"America's dependence on foreign oil hurts our economy, helps our enemies, and puts our security at risk. Oil companies and special interests have fought energy reform for decades to protect their profits. They've kept us dependent on foreign oil and protected corporations that pollute the air our children breathe and the water they drink. This bill puts America back in control of its energy security and makes America more energy independent. It will create new energy industries and new jobs and develop secure, clean energy sources that are made in America and work for America.

"Today we are now one crucial step closer to our energy independence, regaining control of our energy security, and delivering a comprehensive clean energy and climate plan to the president's desk as soon as possible."

----- About Clean Energy Works Clean Energy Works is an unprecedented grassroots coalition of more than 65 faith, labor, veterans, environmental, sportsmen, farm, business, youth, community, and other groups representing more than 12 million Americans. The campaign is mobilizing the voices of the millions of Americans who want urgent action on a comprehensive clean energy and climate plan that delivers more jobs, less pollution, and greater security.
